We expect ethereum to face resistance at 2,229.85 and may test the support level of 1,512.37 in the near term.

Risk Factors

The current market trend is highly volatile, with most assets facing significant resistance levels. The bearish momentum is likely to continue in the short term, and investors should be cautious of potential downturns. The RSI levels for most assets are indicating oversold conditions, which may lead to a bounce-back in the near term. However, the MACD signals are confirming the bearish trend, and investors should be prepared for further declines.
